Safe Harbor Warning

Forward-looking Statements

During today's presentation, we expect to make forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Statements in this presentation regarding the company’s strategy, value proposition, goals, priorities, anticipated revenues, anticipated demand, growth opportunities, customer needs, momentum, capital allocation, future product offerings, anticipated financial condition, anticipated GAAP and non-GAAP financial targets, goals and expectations, successful integration of acquisitions and future results of acquired companies, the anticipated strengths and expected growth of the markets the company sells into, and future operations, earnings, and tax rates are forward-looking statements. Forward-looking statements can also be identified by words such as "anticipate," "plan," "estimate," "expect," "intend," "forecast," "target," "believe," "outlook," "prospect," or future or conditional verbs such as "will," "should," "would," "may," "can," or "could." These statements are subject to a number of risks and uncertainties, and actual results may differ materially from any future results expressed or implied by the forward-looking statements. Risks and uncertainties include without limitation: the effect of the global economic and geopolitical conditions; our international operations and foreign economies; adverse public health matters, including epidemics and pandemics such as the COVID-19 pandemic; our ability to effectively manage our partners and distribution channels; interruptions in our technology systems; cyber-attacks; the dependency of our product revenue on certain industries and the risk of contractions in such industries; fluctuations in demand for our products including orders from our large customers; concentration of credit risk and uncertain conditions in the global financial markets; our ability to compete in markets that are highly competitive; our ability to release successful new products or achieve expected returns; the risk that our manufacturing capacity and a substantial majority of our warehousing and distribution capacity are located outside of the U.S.; our dependence on key suppliers and distributors; component shortages; longer delivery lead times from our suppliers; risk of product liability claims; dependence on our proprietary rights and risks of intellectual property litigation; the continued service of key management and technical personnel; the ability to comply with environmental laws and associated costs; our ability to maintain our website; the risks of bugs, vulnerabilities, errors or design flaws in our products; our ability to achieve the benefits of employee restructuring plans; our exposure to large orders; our ability to effectively manage our operating expenses and meet budget; expense overruns; manufacturing inefficiencies and the level of capacity utilization; fluctuations in our quarterly results due to factors outside of our control; our outstanding debt; seasonal variation in our revenues; our ability to comply with laws and regulations; changes in tax rates and exposure to additional tax liabilities; our ability to make certain acquisitions or dispositions, integrate the companies we acquire or separate the companies we sold and/or enter into strategic relationships; risks related to currency fluctuations; adverse effects of price changes; and changes in accounting principles. The company directs readers to its Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2020, and the other documents it files with the SEC for other risks associated with the company's future performance. These documents contain and identify important factors that could cause our actual results to differ materially from those contained in our forward-looking statements. All information in this presentation is as of January 27, 2022 (except as otherwise specified). We undertake no duty to update any forward-looking statement to conform the statement to actual results or changes in our expectations.

Non-GAAP Information

In today's presentation, we have included certain non-GAAP financial measures, including revenue, gross margin, research and development and other operating expenses, earnings per share, operating margin, operating income, and tax rate. Our non-GAAP measures exclude, as applicable, the impact of purchase accounting fair value adjustments, stock-based compensation, amortization of acquisition-related intangibles, acquisition-related transaction and integration costs, taxes levied on the transfer of acquired intellectual property, foreign exchange loss on acquisitions, restructuring charges, tax reform charges, disposal gains on buildings and related charitable contributions, tax effects related to businesses held for sale, gain on sale of businesses, and capitalization and amortization of internally developed software costs. A reconciliation of the adjustments to GAAP financial measures is included on our website at ni.com/nati at the Non-GAAP Reconciliations link. For periods prior to March 31, 2005, our non-GAAP financial measures are the same as our GAAP results. Non-GAAP financial measures are not meant as a substitute for GAAP results but are included because management believes such measures are useful to our investors for informational and comparative purposes. In addition, these non-GAAP financial measures are used internally by management to evaluate and manage the company. These non-GAAP financial measures used by us may differ from that used by other companies. These non-GAAP financial measures should be considered in addition to, and not as a substitute for, the results prepared in accordance with GAAP.
